

The Evolution of Communication!

Communication is the process of creating and exchanging meaning through symbolic interaction. With the advancement of new technologies, we have evolved from Cave drawings to Internet calls. Communication is very important in our society. Communication is often the key to success. Knowing when and how to send your messages effectively plays a big role in the communication process.

By: Student Name